Tornado Rocks New Brockton

FRONT END LOADER gathers up the front wall of this two-story New Brockton building as day breaks Monday morning following the strike by a tornado.

MAYOR L.A. ADEKISON, second from right, surveys tornado damage Monday morning in downtown New Brockton. He holds a two-way radio at ready to issue instructions to repair crews. Sgt. Charles Goodson, left, stands by to offer assistance on behalf of the Alabama National Guard.

Stormy weather hit the Coffee County area in the pre-dawn hours Monday morning, causing heavy rainfall, damage to most of the county and a tornado created havoc in a mile-and-a-half strip of New Brockton in the center of the county. A tornado also cut a path through a wooded area south of Elba.

The four inches of rain that hit many areas of the county during the thunderstorms was damaging to field crops and roads, but not nearly as devastating as the havoc wrought by the violent tornado that hit homes, businesses, utilities and giant oaks and pecan trees in New Brockton about 4 a.m. Monday.

The home of Henry William Locklear, age 82, was minus a top after the twisted post that held the front door ceiling in in twisted and Mr. Locklear. He was helped from the maze by two neighbors, Tim and Ronnie Adams. When asked if the event scared him, Locklear said, "I didn't have time to get scared. I was out in the seedbed."

The Masonic Lodge was housed upstairs in a two-story brick building on Main Street, and the affairs of the Masons was open to the public as daybreak Monday morning. A front wall of the building was piled down on the sidewalk and out into the street. This caused some concern about the wall of The Peoples Bank being safe, and it was decided by bank officials to remain closed until the structure could be checked by experts.

Glass was shattered out of several power and telephone service was disrupted by the tornado. Gene and Janice Strickland were downed Monday morning and were unable to get up. They moved their daughter's trampoline from the front yard to the back yard and removed the ventilators from the roof.

McAree was what was happening after one tree crashed into the front of the house. He and his wife were sleeping in the back bedroom, yelled at his wife Barbara and asked where their son was at the time. When she said he was with her, Cole suggested they go into the kitchen which wasn't near any trees. A tree had fallen on the roof, and the house was falling in, and as he reached down to lift his wife and son from the bed, larger pieces were coming down fast and a large board hit his arm. After they got out of the room, found a light, then the kitchen kerosene lamp, his wife kept in the house (the flashlight was under the rubble in the bedroom), they waited for the storm to pass on, and then surveyed the damage.

Bill Tindall worked his way through the tree limbs in his front yard and in the street to inquire about help in lifting the large trees off the utility lines and to assure everyone his services were available to the citizens of New Brockton. The Industrial Appreciation Day activities went off perfectly last Saturday. The weather cooperated and it was a perfect day for the event. The whole idea of the affair is to show local industry they are not forgotten - and in fact are really appreciated. The Chamber of Commerce in many communities is criticized for ignoring the existing industry in their efforts to get new industry. We salute the Elba Chamber of Commerce for being concerned for the well-being of existing industry before they go running off to seek a bunch of new folks.

The events Saturday were just great! We saw many about the work, cooperation and the efforts of the Chamber, and the general attitude of all those who were involved in the event. Count of people who visited in town during the day were favorable, and apparently all enjoyed the displays and shopping in the local stores.

We have never before been around a bunch of runners on race day, but these folks were very much involved in their sport. They are good folks, well-mannered and a credit to sports in general. When we think of it, they must keep in good physical shape to run and this cuts out smoking, etc. They also probably have to eat - and/or eat certain type foods.

The arts and crafts displays on the square were visited by a whole bunch of folks Saturday, and we saw a number of the exhibitors who were making sales; undoubtedly, others will be made later as a result of the exposure.

It was an Industrial Appreciation Day and the exhibits of the local industries were spaced around with those of the crafts and were worthy of a visit. It is not every day that us "outsiders" get a chance to examine some of these Elba products that closely, and we probably should be more attentive when we get these rare chances.

Down town merchants got involved in the festivities with special sales and sidewalk displays to further expose their merchandise to the potential buyers. It was the skilled merchandiser that could erect a sidewalk display that would stop a visitor and entice them to see the wider range of supplies within the store.

The day was climaxed with a catfish supper, and after watching just the cooking and serving of the food, we went into the kitchen to help out with the work that went into this project. Those folks were scrapping ice, buying more fish and more fish until the workers' tongues were hanging almost to the hot grease. They quit cooking at the appointed time, and not a piece of fish was wasted. A number of people dropped by later in the evening, hoping to pick up a plate of fresh catfish, but it was all gone and the temporary kitchen had been closed down and packed away for another year.

During the "over 15 years" we have been writing this column, this is the first time we have used the entire space to blabber about a single subject. We were impressed by the day's events and the comments of other people confirmed that we were not alone. We used this method of bragging about the event to stress just how important we feel the project is and how strongly we feel it should be done again and again and again.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Mr. Mularz:

Please allow us to use your paper as an outlet to say some special thanks you. Our Second Annual Industrial Appreciation Day was a great success. The addition of the 10,000 meter run sponsored by National Security Insurance and the Pea River Bass Tournament made it a great day to be in Elba. Thank you to every business and individual who donated prizes, trophies, food, drinks, door prizes and a chance to win up to a wonderful time for everyone.

Those persons who made the Industrial Displays, Arts and Crafts, Entertainment, 10K Run, Bass Tournament, Craft Show and Sidewalk Displays, possibly need an individual thank you, our numbers are too numerous to mention. The City joined together and brought a great day.

The committee chairmen for the events are to be commended for their organizational work. Spearheads were the Elba Band Boosters, the Exchange Band, and the Zion Chapel Band.

A special THANK YOU to our band members, Mr. Randal Myers and our band members for all the long hard hours they practiced to make our band one to be proud of.

We're proud of Elba and Saturday showed that. Thank you again.

ChurchMOTIVATION BY FEAR OR LOVE?

A prominent psychologist once stated that the only real way to motivate anyone to do anything is to make them want to do it. Fear of punishment or the desire for reward are both capable of doing this. But both of these motivations are selfish in nature, and selfishness is an attitude to be avoided in the Christian life. Preachers have used fear and reward for years to bring conformity to God's law. Yet I personally now believe that these two are not the only motivators. I believe that Christianity requires that a motivation which will eliminate fear of punishment as being a motivation for service to God. In fact, if there is fear, then we do not have a true motivation. People who rely on fear as their prime motivation in soliciting people's response need to know that they have chosen a weaker motivation. Love is stronger than fear.

All Around Coffee County

Thomas C. Casaday

SPECIAL

Wally Boswell of Enterprise, 7th grade 4-H member, has done something that very few boys get to do. He made his own incubator to hatch a few baby chicks. With his mother helping and encouraging him, he took a cardboard box, cut a hole inside with aluminum foil. He then designed a lid which is pyramid-shaped. He wrapped newspaper around the outside of the incubator.

To heat his little homemade incubator, he used a bedroom lamp with a 25-watt bulb. He left this light bulb on continuously. It took about three days to adjust the bulb to get the right temperature of 99°. Inside his tiny incubator he kept an eight-ounce glass of water. Close to the water he placed a thermometer to check the temperature.

Every morning at 7 a.m. and every night at 7 he turns on each egg over carefully. If one of the eggs he placed in his incubator, one little chick has hatched. He's expecting two more chicks in a few days.

RECOMMENDATIONS

A peanut grower told me that just in trying to save money on leafspot control he let the disease get out of control. He wound up losing a lot of money. I don't know if he'll ever make that mistake again. Whatever it takes to keep those leafspot diseases under control, I am going to do.

Views From THE PRESSBOX

By, Ricky Mularz Editor

The rainy weather last week washed out a couple of ballgames and made the weeds pop up in my yard, but it was just what the doctor ordered at the new softball fields! Maybe there's still hope we'll get up to the parks prior to "The Classic."

ELBA GRADS SHINE IN TROY STATE SPRING GAME

Troy State University held its annual spring game last Thursday night and two former Elba High grads turned in excellent performances.

Gary Bradshaw, a senior, lined up to be pre-game billing by turning in a solid game at the end. The ex-Tiger, an all-COOL grad as a sophomore and a defensive standout last year, recovered a fumble that led to a touchdown and was the star on the winning white team.

Ted Horsted, a redshirt freshman, continued to catch headlines from his fullback post. An off-the-bench end, the ex-Tiger, lined up on 11 carries and scored the Red's only touchdown. Now the Ted has shown what he's made.

Now that two Elba players will be seeing action, it looks like I may turn into a full-fledged Trojan next season!

DIXIE YOUTH AND BABE RUTH PLAYERS OF THE WEEK

I umpire both softball and baseball, which makes it impossible for me to see all the Dixie Youth and Babe Ruth ball games; however, the bookkeepers do a good job and since I write up the games I do have a pretty good idea of what's going on. So something I can add to my knowledge I'll start picking the "Players of the Week."

The first Dixie Youth award goes to Greg Hanchey of the Mets. Greg, a pitcher-shortstop, pitched and hit his team to an exciting win over the Astros. His fastballs kept the opposing team in line and his run late in the game easily cleared the fence and our dear in the woods a deserving winner of the first DYWL award!

This week's Babe Ruth honoree is Boyd English, a hard-hitting first-baseman for the White Sox. Boyd, a 14-year-old, ripped two home-runs in one game last week and Friday night collected three hits to keep his team unbeaten. His hot bat led to his honor!

INDUSTRIAL DAY ALSO A DAY FOR SPORTS ENTHUSIASTS

This year's Industrial Appreciation Day was not only a chance for the local industries to show their goods, but also a day for area residents to enjoy a little competition.

Over 50 runners entered the road race, and everyone of them made it all the way around the hot six-mile course. I consider myself a winner, however. I've never run that far without stopping and didn't want to die so young in life. I salute all you folks who made it.

I never even thought about entering the bass tourney for a couple of reasons (1. I don't like to fish, and 2. Six a.m. is too early to get up). I started out, but 32 more did better and those that enjoyed themselves. The participants got more than enough registration prizes to cover the entry fee, so the fishing was just icing on the cake! Ronnie Shiver and Chris Cox, two of my old buddies, took home most of the money, which should mean a free drink for everyone.

The local Chamber of Commerce did a good job with the annual event, and I guess it'll just get bigger and bigger. Heck, maybe next year they'll even have something for me to enter.

ELBA BANQUET CLOSES 'EM OUT

Elba High School held its All Sports banquet last week, and, sad to say, it's the last banquet of the year. I enjoy going to banquets, not just because there's good food, but because I like to listen to speeches and see athletes get awards. At Elba's the speeches were short, the awards well deserved and the food simply great. The only way we can help is by getting your support; so get ready - this year we'll be calling on you!

GROWING LIKE A WEED - BETTER MAKE THAT - A ROSE

Melissa Hope Mularz is now 10 weeks old and growing like a weed, er, make that a rose! She's grown over four inches since birth, and gained over four pounds - much to the delight of Dear Old Dad, and I swear she's prettier every time I pick her up. What did I ever do without her?

Plenty Of Action In Dixie Youth Baseball League

The action in the Dixie Youth baseball league was fast and furious last week and with the season now three weeks old it still looks like all six teams have a shot at winning the crown. The Mets are atop the standings with a 3-1 record, following closely by the Astros 2-1, Tigers 2-1, Yankees 2-2, Pirates 2-2 and Cardinals 0-3.

Following are highlights of last week's action:

Mets 10
Astros 8

The Mets pulled out to a 10-3 lead midway thru the fifth and almost pulled out the win.

Greg Hanchey got 2 hits including a 3-run homer, to lead the Mets, while Tim Sullivan, Thomas Calhoun and Jason Grider each hit twice. Getting one hit were Mark Matthews, Barry Bryan, Larry Dixon, Darren Thomas, Scotty Norris and Frank Arnold. Bill Bennett and Kevin Barnes all added 2 hits for the Astros, while Ryder McCollough, Matt Henderson, Jim Flowers, and Daniel Donaldson all added one.

Keith Smith pitched a 3-hitter and struck out 14 batters in leading the Pirates to a 4-2 win over the previously unbeaten Mets. The Mets led 2-1 after four-innings but the Pirates took advantage of 3 walks in the fifth to go ahead 4-2 and hold on to the win.

Band Day at Z.C.

By: Lynn Renfroe and Beverly Ellison

With all Band Days comes chaos mixed with a lot of fun. Zion Chapel's Band Day was no exception.

There were arts and crafts, cake sales, face painting, dunk tank, softball tournament, and a live remote broadcast for WELB.

There was live entertainment including the Zion Chapel High School Band.

Prophecy of 1983

What Will Be Happening In The Next 20 Years?

By: Lauri Doster and Ann Sawyer

Recap of 1982-83 School Year

By: Lauri Doster and Ann Sawyer

In recapping the events of the 1982-83 school year, we find that the Zion Chapel High School band had an excellent year. In September of 1982 the band participated in the Southern Invitational Marching Band Festival in Mobile, Alabama. The band, drum, drum major, and the color guard received straight 1's, with the color guard receiving "Best in Class".

Also in October the band went to the Southland Band Festival in Enterprise, Alabama. In the contest the color guard and drum major received 1's while the band received and overall 2. In November the band played at the Tabernacle in Tabernacle, Georgia.

Zion Chapel was able to have a Scholastic Bowl this year. The Scholastic Bowl competed at Enterprise State Junior College in March and won the local competition. Then they went on to compete in the District Competition and won first place also. In May they competed at U.A.B. in the State Competition. They played five other 1-A schools and won all five. The team wasn't able to win but set a good example for future scholar bowl teams at Z.C.

The past year brought many exciting features to Zion Chapel. April 1st Alison Maddox was elected as a State F.H.A. officer. Through this she was able to encourage our F.H.A.

President.

Mrs. Koennen, a native of Minnesota, has attended Troy State University and the fourth, fifth, and sixth grades recently participated in a calligraphy class taught by Mrs. Carol McCullough. This class met for one hour, an hour each day, where the students learned the art of calligraphy.

Calligraphy is defined as meaning "beautiful handwriting" and is the art of fine handwriting. It differs from ordinary handwriting in quality, in shaping its letters. Calligraphy considers legibility, form, size, stroke, proportion, rhythm, spacing, character, and uniformity. Calligraphy has many applications in present-day printing and publishing.

When the class first began, the students traced outlines of letters of Calligraphy with pens. After mastering this they began using Calligraphy pens. Each student made a craft using Calligraphy which they presented to their mother for Mother's Day.

Mrs. Koennen's residency was sponsored by the Coffee County School System in cooperation with the Coffee County Arts Alliance, using a grant from the Arts and Humanities. The grant was part of the imagination Celebration, an outreach program funded by the Kennedy Center to promote arts outside the urban areas.

Council Gives $250,000 To City School System

The Elba City Council voted Monday evening to appropriate $250,000 to the Elba City Schools for renovation of the high school complex. The vote on the matter came minutes after Superintendent John Osburn completed a detailed report on planned renovations and asked the city for the money. Present were Elba City councilmen and school board members.

The formal request and official vote came after many months of discussion and thought by both the board members and city officials. An original stumbling block was the original $25,000 obligation to repay the hospital loan. With the leasing of the hospital, this problem was eliminated and the city fathers felt they could borrow the money to match the $253,743 already on hand for the project.

The money from hand came from the State of Alabama oil windfall funds and must be used for building or building improvements of the schools.

Osburn showed city officials a drawing of the area to be renovated and presented an estimated cost of $501,519, plus architect's fee.

Osburn's plan calls for extensive remodeling where necessary to extend the useful life of the building at least 30 years.

The addition Tuesday of Elba and the Bibb County city of Centerville to the Prepared City list brings the total number of Alabama prepared cities to 250-2549.

Their presentation is to be accompanied by well-planned materials relevant to livability factors and other advantages of placing location in the particular locale.
